You can find an in depth explanation of how to examine your retro payments and lump sums in our news section at www.rtu-ser.com. Some highlights, only full time teachers with no non-sick day absences will see their lump sum as one entry. All other teachers will have a series of entries coded 204504. Those entries added up provide the lump sum payment you received.

Retro Payment was calculated by time period, once again taking into account absences and percentages. In order to check the amounts you need to verify the dates, step and percentage of each of the retro payment periods. There are different rates of retro pay for supply and hourly work. You can have more than one entry per code if you had different contracts, did supply work, etc. If you have specific questions contact us at help@rtu-ser.com

COVID, Rapid Testing and Code 70's

Be sure to have a time stamped photo of your positive rapid test to send to your admin if requested. This can be required for a code 70 absence. Remember code 70's are only if you are sick, not if a family member is sick. The only exception to this rule is if someone in your household or a sexual partner tests positive and your are told to isolate. It does not apply if you are waiting for test results.

Pregnant teachers may have additional CNESST protections. Please contact RTU at help@rtu-ser.com

Watch Out for the Snow and Ice

Just a reminder to watch your step walking to and from your vehicle. Our CNESST coverage starts from our vehicles to our schools. As long as you are going directly to school from where you are parked even if it is not on school grounds.
